“Designing Healthy Communities”

Keynote Speaker:

Richard Joseph Jackson, M.D., M.P.H.

Professor and Chair, Environmental Health Sciences
Professor, Institute of Environment & Sustainability, Urban Planning,
University of California, Los Angeles

In his career, Dr. Jackson has focused extensively on how the 'built environment,' such as architecture and urban planning, affects health. Dr. Jackson recently served on the Board of Directors of the American Institute of Architects, and he has also chaired the American Academy of Pediatrics Committee on Environmental Health. He is currently working on and developing policy analyses of environmental impacts on health ranging from toxicology, sustainability, climate change, urban design and architecture.
